

ENERGY SAVINGS, SUSTAINABLE, LONGER LIFE

New airport belting solution from Ammeraal Beltech

An innovative, energy-saving, and sustainable conveyor belting solution for today's challenging and demanding airports and logistics industries, AMMdurance, is appropriately being launched by global belting manufacturer Ammeraal Beltech on Stand 1570 Hall B5 at Inter Airport Europe.

AMMdurance belts bring ground-breaking new engineered functionalities for energy savings, high performance and endurance.

A trio of prime benefits

AMMdurance brings a trio of valuable new elements to the conveyor belting process of today. First and foremost, its specially-developed dry fabric coating drastically reduces friction, resulting in consistent energy savings. Secondly, unlike silicone, its dry fabric coating protects the underside of the belt from contamination, and from pollution and subsequent shrinkage, which minimises maintenance and downtime. Thirdly, AMMdurance belts will resultantly reward users with lower total costs – and higher profitability.

More energy savings, same industry-favourite low-noise performance

With airports and logistic companies facing growing pressure to reduce energy consumption and emissions, AMMdurance belting represents a unique sustainability solution that does not in any way compromise performance or profitability. Importantly, it does not compromise the low-noise performance of Ammeraal Beltech belting that has been recognised and valued by airports and logistics companies around the world for many years.

Ammeraal Beltech's extensive global 'One-Stop Belt Shop' portfolio will also feature on the company's stand, at Inter Airport Europe, where the Ammeraal Beltech technical team will be looking forward to discussing visitors' task-specific needs.
